ALL FRICTION IS REMOVED, PREMIERS ONE ON RUHR PLAN

Anglo-French Unity Restored As Result Of Conference

TO FIX AGENDA

Certain Questions Will Be Referred To Legal Advisers

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 9.—It is understood that as a result of the conversations between Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and M. Herriot the misunderstanding has been completely removed. The Premiers have agreed on the suggestions to be made to the Allies in regard to the agenda of the Conference, but it is obvious that difficulties must be surmounted with regard to the creation of the machinery for putting the Dawes report into operation.

The opinion is unanimously expressed that M. Herriot and Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will agree to suggest to the Allies that certain outstanding questions should be referred to legal advisers, notably the very difficult question of the procedure for declaring a default by Germany under the new conditions created by the Dawes report. Obviously it is felt that it would be no good to have a repetition of the Ruhr situation.

British diplomatic quarters consider that what is wanted is to devise means to make it quite clear to France that the Reparations Commission remains to do its work and also to make clear to would-be investors that their investment is secured.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 9.—While British and French official quarters are very reticent, some newspapers guardedly indicate that the French proposal for the solution of the difficulty over the Reparations Commission is that the American delegate, as a representative of non-Allied holders of German reparations bonds, should sit and vote with the Commission on the question of German defaults on the execution of the Dawes plan, thus neutralising the French President's casting vote. The newspapers also hint that M. Herriot will raise the questions of inter-Allied debts and security as far as they are affected by the question of strategic railways and the Ruhr.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 9.—The text of the Anglo-French Note is a long document especially the preamble, which details the terms of reference of the Dawes Committee and cites the sections of the Treaty from which the Committee derived its competence.

It states that the two Governments, recognising the importance of the economic and financial points of view and particularly the necessity of creating a condition of confidence,—which, however, they do not consider incompatible with respect for the Peace Treaty,—declare that the arrangement which shall be agreed upon does not prejudice the authority of the Reparations Commission, but, in view of the fact that a guarantee must be given to the investors furnishing 800,000,000 gold marks and to bearers of bonds, the two Governments will unite their efforts to obtain the presence of an American on the Reparations Commission, in the event of the latter having to establish default on the part of Germany.

If this solution is impossible and in the event of the Reparations Commission failing to reach agreement, the two Governments recommend that the Commission should call in an Agent-General of Payments, who must be of American nationality.

The Note proceeds that, in the event of the Reparations Commission declaring an important and wilful default, the Governments concerned will undertake to confer immediately on the necessary measures.

The inter-Allied conference will decide on plans to re-establish

Compulsory Military Training For Japanese, Is Committee's Advice

Outline Of Country's Future Policy Completed After Months Of Investigation; Efficient Methods At Minimum Cost Is Central Idea In Recommendation

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 4.—The duties of Japan's future military organisation has been completed by the committee which has for several months past had the matter under consideration, it is reported.

As already indicated, the reform in the country's military organisation lies in the direction of the adoption of the most modern scientific methods of attack and defence through the perfecting of the air arm and the study of the latest weapons and of chemical warfare.

To meet the increase of expenditure involved and to make this increased expenditure confirm with the economies forced upon the national exchequer, what is to be spent in one direction must be saved in another without in any sense damaging the efficiency of the military machine.

The military authorities, therefore, are said to be about to introduce a reorganisation of the army on a three instead of a four-unit basis, that is to reduce the number of regiments per division, of battalions per regiment, and of companies per battalion from four to three each.

This, it is stated, will result in a saving of administrative expenses, though it is carefully pointed out that no weakening of personnel is thereby intended.

Other changes indicated are the abolition of the one-year service system and a reduction in the period of general conscript service.

To counterbalance these, it is proposed to recommend a compulsory course of military training in all schools and colleges, so that the youth of the country may be more or less familiar with military routine and tactics before they called upon to serve their regular term with the colors.

MR. HSU YUAN DEFENDS ACTION IN RUSS TRANSFER

Justifies Attitude On Account Of Practical Reasons; Cites Treaty

In reply to the attacks made by Karakhan, the Soviet envoy, Mr. Hsu Yuan, the local Special Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, stated that the allegation that he had sided with the "Whites" in the handing over of the local Russian Consulate was absolutely unfounded and that he had been working overtime to persuade the former Russian Consular officials to give up the premises. He fixed the time of the handing over provisionally on July 15.

There are many practical difficulties in the transfer, Mr. Hsu Yuan pointed out in an exclusive interview with THE CHINA PRESS Representative. The Consulate had been used for the Bureau of Russian Affairs, since the termination of diplomatic relations with the Czarists, under his administration, he acting as director of the bureau. He was assisted in his work by the former Russian officials. The former Consul-general acted as Deputy Director of the Bureau. Only three days notice were given to him and his Russian associates to abolish the bureau. On June 27, the notice was received, ordering the abolition and handing over of the affairs to Mr. Hsu's own Bureau of Foreign Affairs. Some of these Russian officials and their families have been residing on the premises for years and it was impossible, both theoretically and practically to turn them out into the street on a moments' notice.

Moreover, the question of allowance for the Russians had yet been unsettled. The Ministrial order terminated the allowance for the Bureau of Russian Affairs, which had a monthly budget of $4,000, on June 30, but the Russians are claiming six months' allowance. While the claims of the Russian officials are exorbitant, Mr. Hsu personally believes that some consideration might be given in view of the distressed condition of the men, who until ten days ago were employees of the Government.

On the question of the Four Russian ships in Woosung waters, Mr. Hsu was of the opinion that serious consideration must be given to the fleet before drastic steps are taken. Representatives of General Gleboff are constantly calling on Mr. Hsu, informing him that they would never give up their ships to the Soviet Government nor would they be content to be repatriated. They needed money and wanted to sell their ships and munitions abroad. If they were forced to surrender the ships, they would sink them and let the Chinese take the consequences. Therefore Commissioner Hsu, in view of the serious situation, which might effect the peace and order of Shanghai, both in Chinese territory and the Settlement, wanted to think twice before complying with the request of Karakhan's last note.

The statement that his attitude tended to nullify the Sino-Russian preliminary agreement, Mr. Hsu pointed out, was premature, since the pact did not require him to carry out these duties within any stipulated time limit. It merely provided that he should take the necessary steps to transfer the property back to the Russian agent, which he had been doing, according to his statement.

MUKDEN TO HAVE SPECIAL SECTION IN RUSS TREATY

Wu Wants Own Men For Canton River Conservancy

(Dah Tong News Bureau)

Peking, July 10.—The Central Government has agreed to allow Manchuria to enter into a sectional understanding with Soviet on trade similar to that of Sinkiang. The Mukden representative, Yuan King-kai, is now negotiating with one of Karakhan's secretaries on the questions of the Eastern Railway and trade between Russia and Manchuria. The conclusions will be incorporated in the main agreement.

In defence to the proposal of Yang Chi-sung, Marshal Wu Pei-fu has asked for the appointment of Yih Chu as Commissioner of River Conservation in Kwangtung and for the release of the salt surplus to him. This will have an adverse effect on the peace negotiations between Chen Chiung-ming and Dr. Sun, Wu believes.

The Joint Bureau of the General Staff and the Ministry of War, in a telegram to Ma Chi, asking him to stop his assault, states that Shen Hung-yin and Lu Yung-ting has concluded a peace pact, a copy of which has been received by Peking.

Nominated By Democrats

JOHN W. DAVIS.

John W. Davis, who has been nominated for the presidency by the Democratic Convention in New York, after one of the bitterest and most long drawn out struggles in the history of American politics, is a West Virginian by birth. He was born at Clarksburg, in that state, on April 13, 1873, and is, therefore, fifty-one years of age. He is a graduate of Washington and Lee university, and holds L.L.D. degrees from that school, and also from the University of Birmingham, England; the University of Glasgow; Union University of New York, and Yale university.

After his graduation he began the practice of law in Clarksburg, later going to New York, where he became associated with the firm of Stetson, Jennings and Russell. He was for two terms a member of the House of Representatives from Virginia, resigning to become Solicitor General of the United States in 1913, which office he held five years.

In 1918 he was appointed Ambassador to the Court of St. James by President Wilson, which office he filled with great credit to himself and his country until 1921.

Mr. Davis has been before the public almost continuously in recent years, and is well known as a public speaker. His home at present is in New York city.

Chinese Press Opposes Flogging For Criminals

One of the suggestions made by Major Hilton Johnson, Acting Commissioner of Police, at the conference of representatives of the Street Unions on the question of armed robbery on Tuesday was to revive the application of corporal punishment of armed robbers in order to lessen the crime within the Settlement. The representatives asked for time to consider the proposal seriously; but the reaction as expressed by the local Chinese press is not favorable.

While most of the papers dealt with the suggestion in a general way, disapproving the proposal with the argument that death is the highest form of corporal punishment and that the reintroduction of the "cat" is inconsistent with all Republican ideas of improving the penal code, there are two practical difficulties which one must face in proposing such a measure.

First, resentment against the application of corporal punishment by the Mixed Court, the only judical tribunal competent to use this punishment in the International Settlement, which has just been visited by a "crime wave." Despite the rulings made by the Mixed Court Assessors and Magistrates that it is a Chinese Court, Chinese in general do not recognise it as such. It has no Court of Appeal. It is not a part of the entire judicial system of China and its Assessors and Magistrates are appointed by the Consular Body, a foreign diplomatic body. And suggestion that the Mixed Court should revive the practice would be strongly resented and vigorously opposed by the Chinese aside from the question of the law of land, it is declared.

Second, the law of the land does not permit the use of chastisement, flogging, whipping or bambooing at present. Up to the establishment of the Republic, these as well as the application of the "third degree" to coerce prisoners to "tell the story" were prescribed by law. The penal law of China under the Manchu regime under the captain of robbers, said: "All persons found guilty of having been jointly concerned as principals or accessories in an attempt to seize the property of another by force, that is to commit a robbery, shall be punishable with 100 blows and perpetual banishment of 3,000 li. When the robbery is actually effected, all the individuals concerned in the commission thereof, shall be beheaded, whether participating in the booty or not and however small may be the total amount of the plunder. If the contriver of the robbery does not actually contribute to the perpetration thereof, nor afterwards participate in the booty obtained, he shall not suffer death, but receive 100 blows and be sent into perpetual banishment of 3,000 li."

Before the establishment of the Republic, therefore, it was not uncommon to see "bambooing" executed in the Mixed Court at that time under the jurisdiction of the Chinese Taotai (now the combined office of Commissioner of Foreign Affairs and the entire judicial system of the country. These punishments, no

LUMBER BOATMEN ON STRIKE HERE IN PAY DEMAND

Want Wages During Annual Overhaul Period; Bootmakers Threaten Walk-Out

The latest division of labor to join in the recent epidemic of strikes here are the workers on lumber junks plying between Shanghai and Fukien ports. These men, to the number of about 600, are now holding out here until demands formulated have been met or a compromise has been arrived at.

It is the practise of the lumber junk men since the strike was called to leave their vessels immediately upon arrival here, refusing to assist in the discharge of cargo. Their demands are that they be paid their usual wage during the months of July and August, when the boats are ordinarily laid up in dock for overhauling.

The strike of Chinese boat builders in Pootung, which has effected some 500 workmen recently, is reported to have been settled. The builders in charge, it is stated, have granted raises in wages ranging between 20 and 40 percent.

Another strike affecting the Settlement at the present time is that of local shoemakers. Some 500 of these, it is stated, are pressing for an increase in wages and have delivered an ultimatum to the employers. Some few are reported as already out on strike and others are expected to follow.

JOHN W. DAVIS, FORMER ENVOY, IS NOMINATED; 'BROTHER CHARLEY' BRYAN TO BE HIS RUNNING MATE

Convention Chooses West Virginian After Bitter Struggle Lasting Through 103 Ballots; Sorrowful Scenes As McAdoo Partisans Give Up The Ghost

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, July 9.—Ex-Ambassador Davis has been nominated Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, July 10.—The Democratic Convention has nominated the Governor of Nebraska, Mr. Charles Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan, for the Vice-Presidency. This is regarded as a master-stroke on the part of Mr. Davis to checkmate the latter's opposition and to appeal to the farmers for support.

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, July 9.—The delegates arrived at the Convention today, weary and half awake. They found a new spirit dominating the assembly. Messrs. Smith's and McAdoo's supporters early began a considerable redistribution of votes. Mr. Davis soon took the lead for the first time. The 102nd ballot gave Mr. Davis 415 votes and Senator Underwood 307.

After the votes cast for Mr. Davis in the final 103rd ballot had reached the necessary two-thirds majority, the States were called upon to discontinue balloting and the nomination was made unanimous.

Mr. Davis in the course of a statement said: "There can be no compromise with reaction. Liberal principles must and will prevail. This is the mandate of the hour and I shall obey it."

(Reuter's American Service)

New York, July 9.—A thrilling drama occurred at last night's session of the Democratic Convention. It opened with Senator Ralston's withdrawal, then Governor Smith's conditional withdrawal and, lastly, Mr. McAdoo's epic performance, like that of a man signing his own political death warrant. He took stray pieces of paper and the stub of a lead pencil and, sitting in bed, scribbled the fateful letter releasing the delegates. He showed the letter to his wife, who readily approved. The letter was then read to the delegates. It brought bitter tears to the eyes of the women delegates, who for weeks had been marching, shouting, waving flags, signing hymns and praying for the success of Mr. McAdoo.

The violence of the struggle in the mind of Mr. McAdoo is indicated by his pathetic message, saying that he felt that if he withdrew his name from the Convention, he would be betraying the trust of the people; yet he was not willing to contribute to the continuance of the hopeless deadlock. He would continue to fight for the principle and ideals of progressive Democracy and for righteousness. He hoped that the Democratic party would always hold aloft the torch carried to such noble heights by the late President Wilson.

Rail Unions Ask Exemption From 48 Hour Measure

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 9.—A conference of the National Union of Railwaymen at York today passed a resolution demanding the exclusion of railwaymen from the 48-Hour Week Bill under the Washington Convention. Mr. C. T. Cramp, the Industrial Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, said that, if the Government persisted in passing the Bill unamended, the railwaymen would close down the railways on Sundays, not merely in regard to traffic but also for repairs.

Ussuri Railroad Again Operating

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 10.—The transference to the Central Administration of Far Eastern Russia, which occupied the greater part of June, was completed on June 30 and traffic on the Ussuri Railway, which was disorganised during the transfer of the Siberian Government, was resumed normally on July 1.

BANDIT MENACE BECOMES WORSE AROUND WEIHSIEN

Aged Mother Of Christian Pastors Is Held For Ransom

(China Press Correspondence)

Weihsien, Shantung, July 8.—The Chefoo-Weihsien motor road on July 1, added a baggage bus to their fleet of cars running daily between Weihsien and Chefoo. There is a free baggage allowance of twenty small catties, slightly less than twenty pounds, and then there is a charge of ninety cents for each ten catties or fraction thereof from Weihsien to Chefoo, with a smaller charge for shorter distances. The fare from Weihsien to Chefoo was at the same time changed to twelve dollars.

The cars start from the Kiao-Tsi Railway station at Weihsien each morning about five-thirty, so that passengers arriving by the night trains either from Tsingtao or Tsinan make fairly good connections and do not have a very long wait before the start of the motor buses. The cars arriving from Chefoo also plan to connect with the late afternoon train to Tsinan and Tsingtao.

The roadway is kept in very good condition and the cars make good time. As the road is an earth road, heavy rains prevent the cars from running. The through cars run in fleets of from five to seven busses. There are also local cars twice a day between Weihsien and Liungkow and Chefoo and Lungkow.

The bandit situation around Weihsien is getting steadily worse and bandit activities are getting nearer to the city as the kaoliang gets higher. The 76-year-old mother of two prominent pastors of the Presbyterian Church was taken from her home about two weeks ago and is held for a high ransom. There seems to be little hope of her release as this particular band of robbers has the reputation of not returning any of their captives alive. It is apparently a small band without very suitable hiding places for their prisoners and they are evidently afraid that if their captives are allowed to return alive they will make known the secrets of the band. Of over ten captives taken recently among the Chinese of that neighborhood no one has been returned alive. In some cases after the ransom has been paid the dead body of the prisoner has been returned.

A large band of robbers is operating in the neighborhood of Chucheng to the southeast of Weihsien. A large village which resisted them has been burned and a number of the people murdered. It is reported here that Chucheng City is surrounded, but reliable news is hard to get.

The official at Weihsien has a number of bandits in jail, but for some reason or other he seems reluctant to punish them in the usual way. The local gentry are very much concerned about the situation and are urging more drastic action.

Open-Air Cinema To Open Saturday

Shanghai's newest cinema will open on Saturday, July 12, with a super-picture, "One Week of Love," starring Conway Tearle, which will be shown for four days.

The new theater, which is specially designed for summer weather, is an open-air movie, situated at 119 Range Road, between N. Szechuen and Honan Roads. It will have a seating capacity of 2,000, according to Mr. Richard Bell, manager who says, also, that he has obtained a fine series of programs for showing.

Besides movies there will be occasional vaudeville.

Among the films booked for showing following the Conway Tearle picture, are, "One Week," with Buster Keaton; Norma Talmadge's great success, "Smilin' Through;" Chaplin in "The Idle Class," a Mack Sennett five-reeler and others of equal merit.

THEY ARE PROMINENT IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Above: MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT & MRS. HERBERT HOOVER
Below: GENERAL J. J. PERSHING & JUDGE JOHN R. CAVERLEY

Mrs. Herbert Hoover was said to be the one who decided that her husband should not consider overtures to be the Vice-Presidential nominee on the Republican ticket because she did not want him to be relegated to a minor political place.

Judge John R. Caverley, of Chicago, will probably be the presiding judge in the trial of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., self-confessed murderers of little Robert Franks.

General John J. Pershing visited scenes of his youth when he attended commencement exercises at West Point Military Academy, and took the salute as the graduating cadets filed by.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Democratic National Committee, presided at a pre-convention meeting of prominent women who are interested in the form which plans shall take in the Democratic platform.

Hongkong Section At Wembley Hosts At Chinese Dinner

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 9.—The Commissioners and Committee of the Hongkong section of the British Empire Exhibition entertained a large and distinguished company at a Chinese dinner at the Hongkong restaurant at Wembley yesterday evening. Mr. E. R. Halliax, the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, presided. Sir Robert Ho Tung and Mr. Chow Shou-son were the joint hosts.

Sir John Jordan proposed the toast: "To Hongkong and our Chinese fellow-citizens." Mr. Chow Shou-son, Robert Ho Tung and Mr. Stanley Dodwell replied. The speeches were very cordial and the function a great success.

the economic and fiscal unity of Germany, in which connection the Reparations Commission will be asked to submit suggestions. Any necessary modification of the experts' plan dictated by experience will only be introduced with the necessary guarantees and by common agreement of the Governments concerned.

A special organisation shall be created to advise the Governments on the question of a system for distributing reparations payments.

It will be expedient to settle what authority, if necessity arises, should be entrusted with the interpretation of the Dawes report. The Government have agreed to refer any juridical difficulties in the present text to their legal advisers.

The British Government will seek an equitable solution of inter-Allied debts, taking into account all the elements affecting it, and the question has, therefore, been referred to Treasury experts for preliminary examination.

As regards the question of security, the two Governments have agreed to seek the best means of obtaining complete pacification either through the League of Nations or some other channel and to continue the examination of the problem until a solution is finally achieved.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—Mr. MacDonald on his return from Paris declared that the conference with M. Herriot was a complete success and cleared up all misunderstanding.

A telegram from Paris states that M. Herriot said that it had been the best day for the Entente Cordiale since the Armistice. It was the beginning of a new era in Europe.

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—The opinion in London and Paris with regard to the results of the Paris conversations is somewhat divided. While satisfaction is expressed in London that a fresh agreement has been reached and that the Conference will be held, it is doubted whether the real difficulties have been faced and overcome. It is feared in some quarters that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald may have been asked to sacrifice more than he can afford to give. Most of the newspapers of Paris are satisfied but some are not so enthusiastic and declare that the only result at present is that rupture has been avoided and that Mr. MacDonald is right when he says that the road is still long and full of pitfalls.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 9.—The conference between Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and M. Herriot ended at three o'clock this afternoon. Mr. MacDonald informed pressmen that an agreement had been reached in regard to joint Franco-British proposals to be submitted to the London Conference on July 16 in the form of a Franco-British note, which was being forwarded to the Allies.

Mr. MacDonald has left for London.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 9.—The Conference of Ambassadors has addressed a note to Germany, noting with satisfaction the German acquiescence in the proposed general military inspection, and intimating that providing Germany co-operates, the Control Commission will do its utmost to conclude its operations by September 30, although a definite date for the termination of its labors cannot at present be fixed. The Note points out that the Allies adhere to their claim for the execution of the five other categories of operations, which the German reply does not mention. It intimates that the commission will resume its final operations on July 20, carrying them out in the spirit already indicated.

Arms Shipment Was Coming Here

(Reuter's Service)

Colombo, July 9.—The contraband, which was seized yesterday on board the German steamer Schlesien, consists of 100 rifles and 200 revolvers, all of which are of the German service pattern.

The consignment was marked "Machinery for Kobe" but was apparently intended for China as it was not stored with the cargo for Kobe and was readily accessible so that it could be easily transhipped at sea. The vessel was searched on the instructions of the Secretary of State.

doubt, had salutary effects on the prisoners, it is admitted, especially the armed robbers, and incidentally gave the detectives and their "seconds" much food for thought in their own system of "third degree."

The most glaring evidence of opposition against corporal punishment in Shanghai perhaps is the notorious case of the Ningpo lad named Lo Tse-wah, who, according to the findings of the British Supreme Court, underwent the "third degree" in one of the police stations in the Settlement. This case attracted nationwide attention two years ago and caused an uproar among the local Chinese public bodies led by the Chamber of Commerce, the Ningpo Guild and the Canton Guild. Aside from the question of justice in the application of the punishment, the organisations questioned unmercifully the advisability of such a practice under a "civilized" police system.

Anxious as the community is in devising means of remedifying the deplorable robbery situation, it is apparent that these two practical difficulties must be squarely confronted if the suggestion were to be carried out. The first concerns the eternal question of "face," which among Chinese circles means practically everything to them, while the second necessitates a change in the whole of the judiciary, whose technicalities are impossible to overcome under the present system of government or misgovernment.

Comparison
Compa
It is obvious that where claims are made, comparison is inevitable. Comparison of the NEW Columbia Grafonola with ordinary gramophones has given it a place in music that no other gramophone has attained in so short a space of time. Comparison of the "NEW PROCESS" Records (without Scratch) with ordinary records reveals all the deficiencies of the latter.
To hear either one is to enjoy but one-half of a great achievement. To hear them in combination is to experience the sensation of a new experience. But to hear them in comparison with ordinary gramophones is to understand the enthusiasm of master musicians and music-lovers alike.

Four Bouts, Four Kayos, At One Of Best Cards Ever Offered At The Carlton

Raw Meat Eaters On Job With Vengeance: Kid Gabo Wins Flyweight Title Of China By Beating Domingo; Small Crowd Sees Show

By Wesla

Cauliflower ear headquarters seethed with activity last night—seethed and gurgled and boiled over. The old Punchatorium was fuller of industry than the Democrats are of hope, or than Saturday was of hangovers.

And yet, with all this hum of toil buzzing in their ears four of the knuckle knockers flopped down on the reclined canvas and went to sleep—so fast asleep that the booming voice of big Knute Hansen and the shrieks of frenzied customers could not wake them up. Good night—they were sleeping the sleep that is induced by solid whacks on the jaw.

There were four bouts and four knockouts, counting Joe Ching's two visits to the carpet for counts of nine as equivalent to the haymaker. Following Joe's visit to the edge of Nodville, Filipe Flores stepped in front of a fist that was traveling faster than a sailor's wages in a waterfront dance hall, and after him came one Tommy Amer, looking for a place to flop. Young Gonzalo, who is very obliging in such matters, volunteered his services as guide, and soon had Tommy tucked in for the night.

A ROUGH WELCOME

Finally came Kid Domingo, worried by his long journey from Australia, setting forth that he was a stranger in a strange land and asking to be taken in. Kid Gabo took him in all right—took him in through the front door and kicked him down the back steps, where he lay crumpled in a heap, with all the insomnia out of his system.

It was a whale of an evening for those who like to look upon the raw meat eaters at meal time. When Joe Ching, who is tougher than mule steak, hit the boards for two counts of nine in the curtain raiser the paying guests began to sit up and take notice. This was a fine dish, and would the landlady kindly pass it around?

The landlady did that very thing in the very next number, which brought Filipe Flores and De La Cruz together in a six round go. It didn't last six rounds, however. As a matter of fact it didn't last much more than six seconds, for they had hardly squared away when Cruz caught Filipe a click on the chin that lifted him clear off the floor. He dropped flatter than the sole of one of Knute Hansen's brogans and lay there until Knute, towering above him, counted nine. He then got up wearily whereupon Cruz whanged him again, and again he sprawled on the canvas. This kept up a minute or so, until finally Cruz put him away for the full count. Knute might just as well have tolled off the hours as the seconds, for it made no difference to Filipe. He was through for the evening, finished.

THIS ONE A WASHOUT

Then came Tommy Amer, a British sailor, and Young Gonzalo, and although the sailor outweighed the Filipino by some ten pounds, and had it on him a yard or so in reach, he knew nothing about the proper employment of these advantages, and was soon in distress from Gonzalo's slams. All the Filipino had to do in this instance was to walk up to his man and master him on the side of the head, or on any other part of his superstructure that happened to be handy—which was about as easy as it would have been to step out and lambast a straw man dangling from a rafter. Amer gave the most hopeless and helpless exhibition ever seen here. It didn't seem possible, from watching him, that he had ever so much as read an account of a boxing bout in a newspaper, to say nothing of taking part in one. The customers and his seconds bellowed at him to stick out his long left arm, thus to hold Gonzalo off, but there was nothing doing.

He seemed to be in there with the idea that the main object in the contest was to get himself hit as many times and as hard as possible—an idea that wasn't discouraged by Gonzalo in the least. The Filipino knocked him down a dozen times, until finally his seconds saw the futility of further effort and tossed in a towel. Tommy has a fine, muscular body but he certainly will have to have a few lessons in the fundamentals if he hopes to get anywhere with these Filipino battlers.

THRILLING BATTLE

The main event was a thriller. Both Domingo and Gabo are fast as chain lightning; absolutely catlike on their feet. They flew around the ring like human swallows, skimming and dipping so fast that the eye could hardly follow them. If the two Filipinos seemed to have the more telling punch; a suspicion that was verified in the last round when he got Domingo against the ropes on one side of the ring and proceeded to reduce him to mincemeat.

In this flurry he caught the newcomer a clip over the eye that sprawled him on the mat and he was still sprawled there when Knute Hansen had finished counting the fateful ten. In fact Knute had gathered his buddy Matty Smith under his arm and the two of them were half way down Nanking Road on their way home before Domingo began to evince any interest in surroundings. That's how far out he was.

A great scrap, that last one. True, there wasn't the solid hitting that characterised the other bouts, but to offset this there was plenty of the best boxing ever seen in Louie's swat parlor. Up to the last round it looked like a draw, or at best a slight edge for Gabo on aggressiveness, but when the dusky Kid had finished his labors in the final there was nothing about it that resembled a draw.

And sad to relate, the crowd was small. It always happens: good bouts, small turnout of customers!

GALLOPERS WIN PRACTICE GAME FROM SAILORS

Second String Men Have Little Difficulty With Asheville Nine

In a practice baseball game at the Recreation Ground last evening a combination of first and second string Gallopers defeated the team from the U.S.S. Asheville by the one sided score of 11 to 4.

It was not much of a ball game. In fact it was hardly a good practice session, the sailors being unable to offer anything in the line of opposition. It was a comedy of errors all 'round.

Doc. Gray started in the box for the Gallopers, and did very nicely the first two innings. In the third session the sailors unraveled the secret of his delivery and began to get to him rather freely. Herby then yanked the Doc in favor of Ben Barnes, who held them helpless the rest of the way.

Stovall started on the mound for the sailors but was pounded all over the lot, seven runs counting in the first session of the Gallopers at bat. He was then displaced by Knickerbocker, who was somewhat more successful, as only four markers were garnered off his delivery the first stanza he was in there. In the later period both sides got tired running bases, with the result that goose eggs piled up. The score by innings:

S'hai	7	4	0	0	0	0	x	—	11	6	3
Navy	0	0	4	0	0	0	0	—	4	4	5

CAMBRIDGE XI BEATS OXFORD IN CRICKET MATCH

Nine Wicket Margin Between Teams At Conclusion Of Match

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 9.—Cambridge won the Inter-Varsity match, beating Oxford by nine wickets.

Oxford today completed their second innings for 248, Wright taking 6 wickets for 49.

Cambridge made 24 runs for 1 wicket.

(Reuter's Service)

Birmingham, July 9.—The match between Warwickshire and the South Africans opened here today in glorious, hot weather. The number of spectators was small. The wicket was in excellent condition.

The South Africans batted first and were dismissed for 317 runs. Commaille made 44, Susskind 45, Nourse 59 and Taylor 94. Taylor played a fine innings, giving no chances and hitting ten 4s. He was particularly fine on the leg side and in his driving.

At the close of play Warwickshire had made 43 for 1 wicket.

HAWKER IS SENT TO ARSENAL ON MURDER CHARGE

A hawker named Huh Bi Siau Dei was ordered sent to the Arsenal by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Loa of the Mixed Court yesterday for the murder of one Koo Kyung-ling, who was shot near Point Road on May 18.

It was stated by the police that the accused and his victim were previously engaged in running a two wei lottery and quarrelled. There was further trouble over money and on the night in question the accused, with three others, went to Koo's house; called him out and shot him. The accused admitted the crime but declared that he alone fired the shots which killed Koo. This the police denied, stating that cartridges of different calibres were found. Huh explained this by declaring that Koo was armed and fired first.

The Court ordered Huh, who had had ten previous convictions, be sent to the Arsenal for further investigation and if he is found not to be deserving of capital punishment to be returned to the Mixed Court.

Plan Broadcasting In The Tokio Area

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 4.—Plans are reported to be under way for the formation by the Mitsui, Takata, and other interests of a Metropolitan Broadcasting Company, which, when completely formed, will be licensed by the Department of Officials for undertaking the business of broadcasting in the Tokio area.

The new company will be capitalised at two million yen, one quarter paid up, and is expected to start operations early next year.

Subscribers to its service may either purchase or lease their receiving sets.

The radius of the Company's broadcasting efforts will be one hundred miles only, it being the plan of the authorities to license other concerns for broadcasting in other areas through the country.

Japanese Labor Heads Plan Parley

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 4.—Labor leaders are planning the formation of a Labor Party, which shall be firmly established and, thoroughly organised by the time the proposed universal suffrage bill has been enacted, and the next diet is elected by popular vote.

Those who are inaugurating this new political party include Mr. Toyohiko Kagawa, the popular leader, and Prof. Iseo Abe of Waseda University.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 4.—In order to render all possible aid to striking workers, the Japan Federation of Labor is planning to set up a Central Strike Board, which will have power to make grants towards campaign funds. The capital which this proposed board will have at its disposal will be made up by modest regular contributions, which each member of the Federation will be asked to give.

AT TEETHING TIME
Your Baby Needs The Help
BABY'S OWN TABLETS GIVE

It is pitiful the sufferings so many children endure when their teeth are coming through. Now with Baby's Own Tablets ready at hand any parent is able to speedily alleviate these teething pains and thus, bring peace and comfort to the tortured little one. Read this mother's evidence:—

"My baby was very ill when cutting his teeth and greatly troubled with tooth-rash, inflamed mouth and nervousness", writes Mrs. W. Pelham, of McCreary, Manitoba. "He was unable to take food for two days owing to ulcerated mouth, but after giving him Baby's Own Tablets the sore mouth soon healed and his health improved in every way."

Many other mothers tell of similar experiences. Baby's Own Tablets also have a remarkable record as a remedy for such common ailments of infants and young children as simple fever, indigestion, constipation, colic, vomiting, diarrhoea, croup, colds and worms. They are guaranteed harmless, being absolutely free from opiates narcotics or other injurious drugs. Of chemists, or post free, 60 cents the vial, from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60 Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

A belated news of the explosion of a bomb thrown down from an airplane into the temporary branch plant of the Chinese Arsenal, Mukden, about 6 p.m. on July 1, has reached Dairen. The explosion killed an engineer and a few Chinese children, who happened to be thereabouts, besides injuring over a dozen working hands more or less seriously. Surgical relief was applied to the injured promptly.

Typhoid Rampant In Japanese Cities

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 4.—Health authorities are inaugurating a vigorous campaign to prevent the spread of typhoid fever and other epidemics as the warmer weather approaches.

Reports say that the former disease is just now particularly prevalent among those people who were rendered homeless by the fire last September and are still forced, owing to the lack of new houses, to live in temporary barracks.

Considerable success has so far attended the efforts of those responsible for the public health of Tokio and the devastated area, and a few days ago a generous press tribute was paid to the work of these officials by a visiting member of the Rockefeller Foundation.

A dance hall queen in a Mexican oil town. A penniless youth, blinded. A petted dancer, with Europe at her feet. A Gambling "greaser" whose dagger was his law.
All strangely caught up in a story that starts in underworld strife then grows and grows, through stately temples, gorgeous palaces, shimmering beauty and wealth, to lavish proportions never equalled on stage or screen.

Brother Earl Haig; Amateur Golf Championship

Glasgow, June 5.—An interesting Masonic function took place in Edinburgh on Wednesday, May 28th, when the Hon. Earl Haig was admitted an honorary Member of Lodge Canongate, Kilwinning No. 2.

The chair was occupied by the Right Worshipful Master, Brother J. Fleming Robertson, C. A. and there was a very large attendance. A deputation was present from the Grand Lodge of Scotland, including the Earl of Elgin, C. M. G., Grand Master Mason; Sir Alexander Gibb, Senior Grand Warden; the Master of Saltoun, Junior Grand Warden; David Reid J. P. Grand Secretary; Edward A. Chisholm, Grand Treasurer etc., etc.

After conferring the honorary membership of the bodge on Earl Haig, the Right Worshipful Master stated that the roll of membership contained the names of many famous men, men of whom Scotland, of whom the Empire, were justly proud. It contained the names of two of Earl Haig's predecessors in office, namely, Field-Marshals Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener.

The Earl of Elgin, at the dinner held after the ceremony in replying to the toast of the "Grand Lodge of Scotland" said he felt that this was a unique occasion, because he was associated that night with a most distinguished brother, who had done good service in all parts of the Empire, but who, in his (Lord Elgin's) opinion owed most of his celebrity to the fact that he came from the Province of Fife.

A COBLENZ WEDDING

On Thursday May 29th at the Palace Chapel, Coblenz, the wedding took place of Rosemary, only daughter of Lord Kilmarnock, British High Commissioner, Inter-Allied Rhineland High Commission, and Lady Kilmarnock, and Lieutenant-Colonel Rupert S. Ryan, D. S. O., R. H. A. Deputy British High Commissioner. Lord Kilmarnock is heir to the Earldom of Errol and has spent 24 years in the Diplomatic Service, having served for a number of years in Tokio, and later in Copenhagen. Lieutenant-Colonel Ryan is the son of General Sir Charles Ryan. At the onset of the Allied occupation of the Rhine he was Chief of Staff to Sir Charles Ferguson, Military Governor at Cologne, and joined the I. A. R. H. C. at Coblenz on its formation.

AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP

The Amateur Championship has once more come and gone—we have had our share of hopes and disappointments—we have had one real sensation—and the result while not satisfying from a patriotic standpoint can be definitely said to be surprising and therefore as far as the health of the "Game" is concerned perfectly satisfactory.

The Champion Mr. E. W. E. Holderness is not a newcomer to the championship for it will be remembered that he won from a comparative stranger in J. Caven at Prestwick in 1922. Mr. Holderness is of Scottish descent on his Mother's side learned his golf at Darnoch which is all the consolation that Scotland gets this time. Mr. E. F. Storey the runner-up has done very well when we consider that this was his first appearance in championship golf. He is Captain of the Cambridge Golf Club, is 23 years of age and provided the surprise of the event by defeating Mr. Roger Wethered—the favourite—by two holes in the semi-final.

Scotland did well to have four men in the last eight and hope ran high that we would at least see an International final—but it was not to be—the "Auld enemy" scored and we must rest content with the knowledge that as a result of the week's play Scotland is well represented in the team which has been selected to play America in the Walker Cup Competition.

Anent the sensation mentioned above—this was provided by Major H. D. Gillies of Woking whose monstrous tees, which were the subject of numerous discussions in the beginning of the year, came under the ban of the Rules of Golf Committee.

By way of explanation it may be said for the benefit of those who have not heard of the "skyscraper" tees that they consist (Major Gillies carries several sizes with him) of pieces of wood not unlike sections of cricket stumps with a length of stout rubber tubing to the end. The pointed end is stuck in the ground, the ball perched on the rubber tube and driven with a special deep-faced, largeheaded driver. After Major Gillies played off in first round the following notice was issued by the Rules of Golf Committee.

"The Rules of Golf Committee hopes that golfers before making use of abormal methods of play or abnormal implements will earnestly consider whether they are acting in conformity with the spirit of the Rules of Golf, and in particular with the spirit of the regulations governing the form and make of golf clubs. The Committee considers that it is much to be deplored that players should endeavor to overcome the difficulties of the green by using implements which have never been associated with the game."

The immediate result was that Major Gillies in the next round discarded his novel devices and did not in any way suffer. As a matter of fac Major Gillies, who is a surgeon, never claimed any advantage for his methods, but adopted them to test his own theories. He drives fully as long a ball with an ordinary driver off a sand tee—he is as keen to maintain the spirit of the game as anyone and the "Skyscraper" tee has had its brief day and is now no more than golfing history.

Japanese Plan Oil Exploitation

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 4.—The steamer Wakanoura Maru has left for North Saghalien, with a full equipment of machinery in order to exploit oil possibilities in that section of the island.

The investigations will be conducted under the auspices of the Hokushin-Kai Syndicate, which has been much encouraged by its attempts to find oil during the last three months.

JAIL OPIUM THIEF

When an unemployed Chinese attempted to rob a pedestrian in Honan Road Wednesday evening both were taken into custody, it proving that the pedestrian was carrying a quantity of opium. Inspector Powell told the Mixed Court yesterday that the would-be robber was believed to be one of an organised gang which preyed upon people known to be in possession of opium. He asked an exemplary sentence. The robber was sentenced to three months imprisonment and the opium owner to pay a fine of $50.

Peking Asked To Aid Flood Victims

Peking, July 10.—Telegrams from Kiangsi report serious floods. General Tsai Cheng-hsun, the Tuchun of Kiangsi, asks the Government to aid the sufferers.

Strike Mediation Efforts Fruitless

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, July 10.—Efforts at mediation in the street car strike are thought likely to be successfully in bringing the men back to work.

German Missions Again Recognised

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—The Colonial Office, after consulting the British Missions Committee, has agreed that German missionary societies may again be recognised in the Colonies, Protectorates and Mandated Territories on the same terms as other foreign missionary societies, the British Government reserving freedom to consider questions affecting the appointment of individual missionaries in Tanganyika and other Mandated Territories.

Malaria Causes Havoc In Ukraine

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, July 9.—The malaria epidemic in the Ukraine has assumed the proportions of a calamity in certain areas, where the peasants have been unable to leave home to work on the farms. The number of cases in May was 208,000 as compared with 6,000 in January.

Mounds Of Great Antiquity Found

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—According to Rosta's Urga correspondent, an expedition under the Tibetan explorer, Colonel Kozlof, has discovered near Urga a group of burial mounds of great antiquity containing the remains of Chinese princes.

"Without dissenting voice, critics of authority have placed, "Judgement of the Storm" above such plays as "Way Down East," It is not merely a good drama—it is life, and the pen that drew its characters knew life. Heart beats are in this picture; pulsating, living throbs that go out in irresistible appeal to find a welcome response in the minds of its observers.

ASK FOR FUNDS TO CARRY ON REFUGEE RELIEF

School And Hospital In Need Of Financial Aid

The Russian Orthodox Confraternity, at 235 Avenue Foch, formed in February, 1923, to give assistance to Russian refugees in Shanghai, and supported by subscriptions from the foreign committee in Shanghai has just made public its financial and general report.

The confraternity, in establishing a school at 721 Avenue Foch, an out-patient hospital, as well as other activities, has well-nigh exhausted the funds at its disposal and is making another appeal in order that they may carry on their good work.

Since its formation it has done much to alleviate the position of many unfortunate individuals. Free attendance and medicine are provided at the out-patient hospital and at the present time about 60 patients are attended to daily.

A free boarding school has been established for boys and girls and about 30 pupils are receiving an education in this way.

Evening classes were opened for adults between 15 and 45 years of age, where Russian, literature, English, French, mathematics, anatomy, chemistry, etc., are taught. There are about 170 people attending these classes.

A special course has been available since March for tuition in practical motor-car driving.

The financial statement, showing the disbursements of funds, present condition, etc., signed by D. Kasakoff, president of the brotherhood, and T. Zihanovich, is as follows:

INCOME

Members' contribution	80	33
Various Donations	432	00

New Moderator Follows in Father's Footsteps.

DR. C. H. ROBINSON.

Dr. Charles H. Robinson, of Wheeling, W. Va., who was elected by the United Presbyterian General Assembly in its meeting at Richmond, Ind., as its moderator, has the unusual distinction of being the son of a former moderator of that church. His father, Dr. W. J. Robinson, was born in New York State and was moderator when head of a Pittsburgh church.

came out to China a few months ago to stay with her brother, Mr. E. B. Heaton-Smith, who has lived for many years in Shanghai.

The work and scope of the B. W. A. is expanding rapidly and entails as time goes on, an ever increasing amount of thought and organisation. The Executive Committee is greatly to be congratulated on securing the services of so able and experienced a secretary as Miss Heaton-Smith.

NEW HEADQUARTERS

It is hoped that the new Headquarters in the Hongkong Shanghai Bank Building will be ready for occupation in September. Members will be notified of the exact date later on.

LITERARY SECTION . .

The Literary Section acknowledges with many thanks a gift of books from Mrs. Robjohn for the library at Headquarters.

British Women's Association Notes

GENERAL OFFICE NOTES

Unless anything of unforseen urgency occurs, there will be no more meetings of the Executive Committee until September. In view of the increasing activities of the Association, it has been decided not to close the office during August and the Secretary will be in attendance each morning (only) from 9 to 12.

Miss Heaton-Smith, whose appointment to the secretaryship was briefly announced in our last notes, brings to her post a most interesting and varied experience. Holding the M. A. degree of London University, Miss Heaton-Smith spent eleven years on the Staff of the Royal Library at Windsor Castle and during the war was released to serve as one of the secretaries to the Scottish Women's Hospital at Salonika, later on being transferred to Constantinople, where she carried on secretarial work in the Intelligence Department at G. H. Q. On her return to England, Miss Heaton-Smith re-entered the Royal Service, acting as Secretary to H. R. H. Princess Mary at the time of her engagement and marriage and later on to H. R. H. the Duke of York when an additional secretary was needed in connection with his wedding. Miss Heaton-Smith, a keen lover of travel,

Notice Given By the Trade Mark Bureau, Peking.

Notice is hereby given. By a former notice given by this Bureau the time limit prescribed in Article 4 of the Trade Mark Law was extended to the 30th day of June 1924. Such time limit will soon expire, but, in consequence of applications having been made by various merchants foreign and Chinese for a further extension of the period, this Bureau, acting for the benefit of the merchants, has in conformity with the rules of law petitioned the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce for a further extension of six months up to the 30th of December 1924. Sanction for such further extension has now been given by the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce and notice thereof has been given respectively through the said Ministry of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Custom Department, various public offices in the provinces, and all Industrial Commissioners for the information of merchants, foreign and Chinese. In addition thereto a general notice thereof is hereby given.

AN EDUCATIONAL

C-H-O-P S-U-E-Y

If all of the money now being remitted to China by the various Powers from the balances of the Boxer Indemnity is earmarked for "educational and cultural" purposes, as seems likely, the final result will be a sort of "educational chop-suey" containing a mixture of British, French, American, Russian and Japanese flavours. This is the opinion of one leading Chinese on this subject.

THE CHINA WEEKLY REVIEW

has been conducting an unofficial referendum among leading Chinese on this subject of possible uses of the Boxer Indemnities and in the issues of June 21, July 5 and 12 are presented the views of such men as

Wu Pei-fu	Wen Shih-tsun
Wu Chao-chu	Sun Fo
Y. S. Tsao	P. W. Quo
D. Y. Lu	Albino Z. Sycip
C. T. Wang	Hu Shih
Shen Chien-shih	Kao Lou
Li Yu-ting	Chen Yuan

W. S. New	Singloh Hsu

Since this is a matter of considerable importance to all foreigners interested in the welfare of China and the future relations of foreign nations with China, we recommend a careful reading of these issues of the Review.

FLOUR TRADE IS ALTERED BY EMBARGO IN KIANGSU

Important Results Are Expected From Wheat Restrictions

HELPS SHANGHAI

Crop Yield In North Is Far Below Normal

The embargo placed on the exportation of wheat from Kiangsu Province, which becomes effective on July 28, is expected to have a decisive influence on the local flour and wheat markets, but exactly in what particular has not been determined. The embargo has been announced by the Chinese Maritime Customs at the request of the Governor of the province. An American trader made this statement yesterday:

"The publication of the embargo prohibiting the export of wheat from Shanghai after the 28th of this month and until further notice draws attention to the present unsatisfactory condition of the wheat and flour market in China.

"Last season the China wheat crop was extremely low, and mills here were forced to contract for foreign wheat at prices which made it difficult for them to compete against imported flour with the locally milled product. Present flour stocks in Shanghai are extremely high, being estimated at 1,600,000 bags of domestic and some 100,000 bags of imported.

HEAVY CROP IN KIANGSU

"Wheat crops in North China are reported poor, while the Kiangsu crop is excellent. This fact, combined with the desire of the Shanghai mills to export their flour and keep their wheat for their own use, has it is felt, led to the embargo.

"Reported short wheat crops in America, with the present quoted price of G.$46 per ton for wheat c.i.f. Shanghai, do not promise well for as heavy imports of American wheat and flour this year as were made during 1923. It may be that if the embargo remains effective, Tientsin will see heavy arrivals of imported wheat and flour."

It is estimated that the imported wheat in stock in Shanghai now amounts to 20,000 tons. Chinese wheat is at present selling at Tls. 3.20 per picul, while Australian wheat is quoted at Tls. 4.20 per picul, and American wheat at Tls. 4.30 per picul.

The gross total of wheat imported into China in 1923 amounted to 2,225,464 piculs, valued at Hk. Tls. 7,681,802, more than double the value of the wheat imported in 1922. The importations in 1920 amounted to only 5,425 piculs, valued at Hk. Tls. 33,207. Shanghai mills consumed considerably more than one-half of the wheat imported into China in 1923.

It appears that the present season's wheat crop in Kiangsu Province is about 20 percent better than last year. The crops also are said to be heavy in Anhwei and North Honan, while in all their districts they are poor, in some places far below normal. It was after arrangements had been made to export wheat in large volume from Kiangsu Province to the northern provinces, that the local flour millers' association induced the Governor to prohibit an embargo.

TRANSPORTATION NEEDED

"Although wheat is easily adaptable to bulky transport, usually most of the Chinese wheat crop is not moved out of the province in which it is raised. Frequently wheat in Shensi Province is a drug on the market, sold at a quarter of the price it would fetch in Shanghai. This condition is due to the lack of cheap means of transportations, and, in consequence, American wheat has been bought in large quantity by Chinese mills.

"At one time, when the Hankow mills were forced to shut down for lack of supplies, the crop of Honan Province, north of Hankow, was almost entirely unavailable owing to the high freight rates charged by the Peking-Hankow Railway. For many years, American wheat held the market in South Manchuria just south of the rich wheat growing area of North Manchuria; and it was only after a change had been made in the import regulations governing trade between Manchuria and Siberia in 1913, that the North Manchuria mills made a bid for the wheat of South Manchuria.

"The principal milling centers are situated at the important trade junctions. It is evident that the growth of the flour milling industry is vitally dependent upon the spread of cheap means of freight transportation.

"Shanghai is the center of the biggest milling region in China, yet the industry is comparatively local. Their supply of Chinese wheat comes principally from Kiangsu, Anhwei and Chekiang Provinces, and, while there has been a strong effort to cultivate the export market, the product of the Shanghai mills is consumed largely in the same region.

JAPAN SEEKING $30,000,000 LOAN FROM AMERICA

Representatives Of Diado Electric Power Interests Negotiate

Negotiations are under way in New York between leading Japanese hydroelectric interests and American bankers looking to the flotation of a $30,000,000 loan, which will be a first mortgage on the extensive properties of the Diado Electric Power Company of Japan, and which will be the basis for electrical equipment orders to that amount.

Momosuke Fukuzawa, head of the Diado (United) electric power interests, arrived in New York recently in connection with the loan negotiations and is stopping at the Hotel Plaza. With him, and also taking part in the negotiations, are Messrs. Thebo and Anderton of the San Francisco engineering firm of Thebo, Starr and Anderton.

The decision to ask a loan in the United States followed two or more years of thorough study of Japanese hydroelectric development possibilities. As a result of this the Diado Company has already built five large power stations on one river and plans to electrify another to supply more adequately the cities of Tokio, Kobe, Osaka and other population centers. The possibilities in this connection are said to be of great economic importance to Japanese industrial and domestic consumers.

The fact that Japan is one of America's most rapidly growing customers for electrical equipment and apparatus and is now buying from American concerns at the rate of $10,000,000 or more a year to the exclusion, in large part, of Germany and other foreign participation in this business, makes it entirely probable, it is said, that the present negotiations will succeed. The fact that such large American concerns as the General Electric and Westinghouse companies would supply a large part of the central station, generating and other equipment covered by the proposed loan, is another consideration which, it is said, augurs for its success.

It is understood that the Japanese Government has no part in the negotiations. A member of the Japanese Government Financial Commission said last month that the commission had no connection with the present negotiations, but indicated that he knew of the visit of Dr. Fukuzawa and Messrs. Thebo and Anderton to New York for the purpose of arranging a loan.

It is known that the bankers, on the other hand, have had a representative in Japan for the purpose of studying the proposed hydroelectric developments and that this phase of the matter has had satisfactory results.

It was pointed out in financial circles that probably not more than half of the full amount of the mortgage credit would be made immediately available, the rest of the loan to be extended, presumably as the orders for the needed electrical equipment require. The flotation of 50 percent of the loan at this time has behind it the fact, also, that the American money market, with its prevailing low rates, is extremely favorable to financing through the sale of bonds. An admittedly delicate point in the situation is the feeling aroused by the Congressional legislation excluding Japanese immigrants. It is the opinion, however, that this feeling has been exaggerated and will not constitute an obstacle to the project.

Because it has been the policy of the Fukuzawa interests to divide their electrical orders among the large American companies, another company which is expected to share in the future orders for the projects planned is William Cramp and Sons, ship and engine builders. This company supplies, besides nautical equipment, water wheels for industrial and hydroelectric plants.

RUSSIA BUYS $35,000,000 COTTON IN SIX MONTHS

Purchases Made In America On Credits Supplied By Chase Bank

Although her Government has yet to be recognised by the United States, Soviet Russia's purchases of one American commodity alone have amounted to between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 since the first of the year, and these on credits supplied by a single American bank.

The commodity is cotton and the bank which has been supplying the credits, without, as had been supposed, the co-operation of other banks, is the Chase National of New York.

These facts were revealed last month by Alex Gumberg, Vice President and Treasurer of the All Russian Textile Syndicate, Inc., which handles exclusively Russia's entire purchases of cotton in America, and which also arranged the credits.

According to Mr. Gumberg, payment for the cotton purchased thus far this year has already been made to the extent of more than $20,000,000, the syndicate meeting all these obligations in American dollars. To date more than 200,000 bales have been bought in the American markets and the larger part of this total has been delivered at Murmansk, the Russian port on the Arctic Circle, by Russian ships. From there the staple is shipped by rail to the Russian textile mills for conversion into manufactured products both for the use of Russians and countries trading with her.

LARGE COTTON SHIPMENTS

The latest shipment, and the largest of all made on behalf of the All-Russian syndicate since it established an organisation in America last December for the purchase of cotton, consists of 19,903 bales, which cleared from New Orleans yesterday, on the steamer Kourak. Other cargoes and the date of sailing were: 9,904 bales, from New Orleans, February 8; 8,669 bales, New Orleans, March 15; 8,175 bales, New Orleans, March 29; 6,956 bales, New Orleans, April 19; 8,400 bales, Savannah, April 22; 5,896 bales, New Orleans, April 24; 5,823 bales, New Orleans and Norfolk, May 1 and 8, respectively; 9,000 bales, Savannah, May 27, and 8,195 bales shipped from Savannah on June 5. Five more ships have been chartered to carry 50,700 bales contracted for.

Mr. Gumberg said that his office within the last few days had been directed from headquarters of the syndicate at Moscow to make inquiries for textile machinery in America as well as a trial order of dyes. Hitherto Russia has not been in the market, in the organised sense at least, for these American products.

The purchases of cotton, he said, would continue indefinitely unless Russia's buying power should be impaired by such eventualities as poor crops, and as long as the American market provided favorable prices at which the staple could be bought in present quantities. The total of these purchases, with the year less than half over, already equals the total which the syndicate was credited with intending to buy several months ago for the entire year. At the rate purchases are now being made they may exceed $100,000,000 by the end of the year 1924, Mr. Gumberg said. Already more American cotton has been bought by the syndicate in the United States than Russia has bought in America in any year since 1917, a year of the revolution. Mr. Gumberg expressed the belief that the total delivered and contracted for (over 200,000 bales) would even exceed Russia's purchases since 1917 and up to the present year.

GETTING ON THEIR FEET

Asked if the purchases were not significant in view of the reported low buying power of the Russian people since the revolution, Mr. Gumberg replied that they demonstrated that the Russians were rapidly getting back upon their feet economically.

"Conditions are pretty near normal, more nearly so than at any time since the World War," he said. "The grain crops in Russia this year we hope will complete the transition back to a state of normalcy. The peasants are able already to resume the buying of the comforts of life, and there was a comparatively negligible carryover of grain from the last crops, which should assure the farmers of Russia good prices for their produce."

The syndicate, it is stated, has 7,250,000 spindles, most of which are in active operation, as compared with a total of about 36,000,000 in the United States for all companies.

The syndicate is planning to extend its lines on a larger scale to China since the signing of the Russio-Chinese treaty, under which the Soviet Government has been recognised, Mr. Gumberg said, adding that the syndicate is now receiving considerable orders from Persia for cotton goods manufactured in Russian mills from American cotton.

Hongkong Stocks

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor state in their weekly share report under date Hongkong, June 27:

In spite of a heavy settlement at the beginning of the week, we have had a buoyant market with a considerable rise in most stocks.

The Shanghai market continues quiet with very little doing.

The following are the principal alterations since last week:

Hongkong Banks:—A fair amount of shares changed hands at $1,150.

Unions:—Are slightly easier and may be obtained at $228.

Hotels:—Are firmer at the decline with buyers at $17½ for Old and $11¾ for New shares.

Hongkong Lands:—Have been the medium of a large business at rising prices and close with buyers at $117 for Settlement.

Humphreys.—Are quiet at quotations.

Cements:—Have firmed up, closing with buyers at $28½ cash and $29 for Settlement for Combined shares.

Wharves:—Had a sensational rise closing with buyers at $200, cash and equivalent rates for forward transactions.

Docks:—Have jumped ten points closing with buyers at $154.

Ropes:—Are quiet at quotations.

Hongkong Trams:—Are firm and have come to business at $38.

Peak Trams:—Continue in demand at $18 for Old and $4.10 for New shares.

China Sugars:—Have had a smart rise and can be placed at $257 for Settlement.

Dairy Farms:—Are firmer and wanted at $25½.

Lane Crawfords—Are easier with sellers at $16¾.

Steamboats:—Have risen to a buying rate of $34½ without attracting sellers.

Shanghai Docks:—Are in more demand, local buyers offering Tls. 92½.

Langkats Combined:—Are quiet at Tls. 19.

London Quotations of the 26th inst.—Hongkong Banks £132, Indos Deferred £13.15/—, Shells £4.2.6. All middle prices.

Exchange:—The demand selling rate on London is 2s. 4⅛d. and the T.T. on Shanghai is Tls. 72⅝.

Hankow Trade

The British Chamber of Commerce, Hankow, states in its weekly circular of trade statistics dated July 2:

Bar silver 34⅛ ready and forward fluctuated during the week closing on 2nd inst. at 34¼ ready 34⅜ forward with an upward tendency. New York-London cross rate 432⅝ on 26th ulto. declined to 432⅜ on 28th ulto. but recovered and closed at 432⅝ on 2nd inst. T.T. 3s. 3⅝d. on 26th rose to 3s. 4d. on the following day and remained steady during the week closing at that rate. 4 m/s. credits which were placed at 3s. 5d. early in the week fluctuated slightly but were done at that rate on 2nd inst. As June 30 and July 1 were bank holidays, exchange business was considerably curtailed.

EXPORTS

A fair amount of business in broad beans and wood oil was reported to be done last week and the market for the former is firm while the latter is strong with values rising.

Enquiries for wood oil from America and Europe would indicate that consumers are again becoming interested.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods:—Market quiet but more enquiry, especially for goods to arrive early next year.

Yarn:—Market dull and little doing.

$400,000,000 IS HOARDED IN U.S., SAYS ESTIMATE

Treasury Official Declares There Are 8,000 Misers With $44,000,000

Hoarded money in the United States amounts to more than $400,000,000 and there are 8,000 hoarders that can be classed as misers, with $44,000,000 hidden away, according to estimates prepared by Joseph S. McCoy, United States Treasury Actuary, for the current issue of the American Bankers Association Journal.

"Those who withhold money from circulation are children, who save in the toy banks; foreigners, who are afraid to trust their savings out of their possession; dwellers in rural districts, who, from their isolation and distrust, retain possession of their earnings, and genuine misers, who want immediate and continuous possession of their treasure for the pleasure it gives them to see and gloat over it," says Mr. McCoy. "The Treasury issues a statement showing the total stock of money supposedly in existence. Evidently the Treasury may be confused by the amount hoarded. It is impossible to ascertain with any great degree of accuracy this amount. In arriving approximately at it, we can only base the estimate upon the number of persons likely, together with their ability, to hoard.

"The number of persons of foreign birth in the United States is about 15,000,000. Some 6,000,000 of these are wage earners. These are much more frugal than are our native population. It is fair to say that of these 2,000,000 hoard their savings. One-half save 50 cents per week and have been doing this for an average of about three years. This would total about $75,000,000. The other half would average about twice this amount, or $150,000,000; a total, as the hoard of our foreign element, of $225,000,000.

"In addition our rural population, especially those in remote districts, are addicted to hoarding. This is evident from the fact that when a bank is started in such locality, as soon as its advantages are understood, personal deposits increase, made up largely from former deposits in the old stocking. In 1920 about one-fourth of those engaged in gainful occupations were on the farms. It is fair then to estimate the savings of these at one-fourth of the total savings. The increase in deposits in savings institutions was about $1,000,000,000; of this $250,000,000 was deposited probably by farmers. In addition, we may assume that a sum equal to say one-half of this amount was hoarded by farmers; that is, a total of about $125,000,000.

"In addition to our foreign-born and rural population, we have yet to consider the miser, and the provident person who keeps cash on hand with which to meet an emergency. Probably about 8,000 are genuine misers. A total hoard of $5,500 each is a fair estimate. This gives a total of some $44,000,000. There are some 500,000 persons in the United States who keep a certain cash amount on hand for emergencies. Say that this averages $75, we have $37,500,000 representing this form of hoarding. The children's toy banks represent a trifling amount. Probably 2,500,000 have such toy banks. The average amounts contained therein is not in excess of say 60 cents, or a total of $1,500,000."

Freight Market

The freight market report of Messrs. Wheelock and Co. states:

The situation in our freight markets to Europe and America have undergone no change since last writing a fortnight ago. There is practically no general cargo moving anywhere, neither is there any tea offering worth speaking about.

Coastwise:—This market has continued dull during the interval since last writing and there is very little doing outside of the regular liner business.

Exchange Market

Messrs. Maitland, Fearon and Brand state in their exchange circular for the week ending July 9:

After minor fluctuations, the price of silver in London is ¼d. higher than this day last week, the latest quotations being 34½d. spot and 34⅝d. forward; during the same period the price in New York has advanced from 65¾c. to 66½c. Official rates remain unchanged at 3s. 3¼d., at which level the market seems steady. We are unable to record any improvement in the volume of business passing, the market continuing in a lifeless state.

Our stocks of silver are reported as follows:

Sycee and bar silver Tls. 42,549,000, an increase of Tls. 1,390,00.

Chinese and Mexican dollars $48,610,000, an increase of $1,100,000.

Silver yen, Yen. 800,000.

Estimated value Tls. 77,620,000 as against Tls. 49,078,000 held at this time last year.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Co. state in their current coal market report:

Japan Coal:—There is no change to report on the situation in this market and we have nothing to add to our remarks of a fortnight ago. The market continues very dull and we are afraid it is likely to remain so for the next month or two.

Fushun Coal:—No change.

Fuchung Anthracite:—No change.

Kaiping Coal:—As usual at this season of the year there is some slackening in the demand and stocks have somewhat increased in consequence. The recent strike of silk factory hands has also caused a slight accumulation on the wharves. On the other hand the output of the mines has shown some reduction and the situation therefore balances itself. Prices remain the same, as the northern market can consume what is unwanted here.

Getting Down To Realities In The Sino-Russian Conference

THE Reuter dispatch from Peking dated July 6 stating that the Ministry of Finance is preparing its "case" for the forthcoming Sino-Russian Conference and that one of the important matters to be brought up is the losses sustained by Chinese merchants through the depreciation of the rouble, indicates that China has not completely lost her head in the joy of her new friendship with the Soviet. It also indicates that there are several difficult bridges yet to be crossed before China and Russia finally get started on the road to friendly relations.

The depreciated rouble issue is not, of course, the only important problem which is yet to be settled, for there is the matter or transferring the Chinese Eastern Railway to Russia, to which General Chang Tso-lin and a great many other Chinese take exception, the problem of transferring to Russian ownership the Eastern Orthodox Church property and, in addition to the foregoing, the Chinese residents of the border towns along the Russian frontier have issued a general indictment of modern Russia's treatment of Chinese citizens which reads as follows:—

"1.—Taxes on Chinese goods are not fixed. As high as 300 per cent. is charged for taxation. For instance, the pongee silk produced by Shantung and Honan costs only about eight or nine dollars per piece, yet the tax chargable is $50.

"2.—No Russian manufactured goods are allowed to be imported into the cities bordering Russia and Outer Mongolia. Such alleged offences are punishable either by fine or imprisonment or both.

"3.—A head tax is raised on each Chinese firm in Russian territory, amounting to $1,000 a year.

"4.—There are other extraordinary taxes imposed on Chinese merchants in Russia, amounting to $300 to $500 a year.

"5.—In traveling, Chinese are required to secure passports at a cost of $4 per month.

"6.—Chinese possessing land in Russia have to pay exorbitant land taxes, of which the rate is by no means regulated.

"7.—All Chinese residents in Russian territory must secure passports, for which a fee of $12 per year is paid for each.

"8.—On the 9th of February, 1920, Russians occupied Kiachta and Mameicheng and removed all the movable properties belonging to Chinese living in these cities into Russian territory. Then they set fire to the empty buildings.

"9.—The Chinese residents in Kiaochta numbering about 5,000, were sent by the Red Government to Moscow and other Russia towns to do hard labor.

"10.—The loss by Chinese merchants through the fall of the rouble was incalculable.

"11.—No protection is being given to Chinese residents in Outer Mongolia before China formally takes over the territory."

Communism may provide an attractive subject for Chinese professors and irresponsible radical students to play with and to use as a club against the Western Powers, but when it comes to swallowing this doctrine and applying it in the every-day relations of Chinese and Russians—well, that's another story. After all, China and Russia have got to do business together. They are dependent upon each other for many essential products of farm and factory, and in the exchange of these products the natural laws and principles of business relationships come into play. Russia has set out to teach the world a new doctrine of social relationship, and, in spite of the fact that she has been unable to enforce the new ideas at home upon her own peasant population, Moscow's leaders apparently are still intent upon propagating it abroad. Unless we are sadly misinformed regarding the psychology and background of Chinese mentality, we believe that Russia will have the greatest possible difficulty in bringing China to her point of view in respect to many of the questions still outstanding.

Almost exactly the same situation has been met in the Russian-British Conference in London. The Labor Government was committed to a program of resumption of relations with Russia, and one of the first acts of that Government was to extend conditional recognition to the Soviet. But this did not end the problem, for when the Russian and British delegates sat down around the conference table, it was found that the British Labor Delegates, while friendly, nevertheless had their feet firmly on the ground when they got down to essentials. England needs the Russian trade and Russia needs British capital, but before definite trade relations can be reestablished, the century-old principles of business relationships must come into play. Sane men simply will not lend money without security, and established ideas on personal property rights cannot be overthrown by "blue-sky" propaganda.

The Chinese merchant who has the reputation for being the best small trader in the world, will want a lot of information about his future relations with Russia before he permits the Chinese Government to settle up all of the problems along the lines laid down by the Soviet. Chinese politicians and militarists have found the new Sino-Russian provisional treaty a convenient club of propaganda against the "aggressive and capitalistic" West, but unless we miss our guess, the Soviet has a lot to learn before everything is settled up between the two nations. We have heard much in recent years regarding Chinese "friendship" for this and that nation, but we have yet to see an instance where China has ever granted any special favors purely on the grounds of friendship.

Wanted—Goodwill In Europe

ONE of the most heartening messages received from Europe for some time is that from Paris published in another part of the paper today which apprises us that the Conference of Ambassadors has addressed a Note to Germany, noting with satisfaction the German acquiescence in the proposed general military inspection, and intimating that, providing Germany co-operates, the Control Commission will do its utmost to conclude its operations by September 30, although a definite date for the termination of its labors cannot at present be fixed. The Note points out that the Allies adhere to their claim for the execution of the five other categories of operations, which the German reply does not mention. It intimates that the Commission will resume its final operations on July 20, carrying them out in the spirit already indicated.

The Inter-Allied Control Commission, of course, is one of the legacies of the late War and is a constant reminder to the people of Europe of what that Continent has gone through. But it is assuredly not the desire of the Allies that the labors of the Commission should be everlasting, and nothing will please them more than the restoration of peace-time conditions in the Continent and a return to normal life in every sense of the term. What the Germans, however, have got to realise is that they were in the wrong in going to war with practically the whole world, and with that realisation must come the natural desire to make reparation for the grievous damage done to innocent non-combatants. The nursing of rancor and resentment by the Germans against the Allies will be of poor service to them in their trials and difficulties. What is wanted is genuine goodwill towards those who were forced by Germany to take up arms. The dissemination of goodwill is likely to do Germany far more good than sowing a crop of enmity in Europe.

An American contemporary recently reminded us that more than a century ago, the Niagara Frontier was the scene of the last clash of arms between the two English-speaking neighbors of North America. Today the bonds of understanding and mutual respect and regard between these peoples are stronger than they have ever been before. Hand has clasped hand across that border in more than a merely perfunctory manner, as the recognition has been borne in upon the citizens of the two great nations that fortifications do not make for peace, but that friendly relationship does. The Niagara Frontier is, of course, but a short span of the 3,000 miles of boundary line stretching from east to west, but it presents an example of that spirit of sympathy and understanding which is spreading over the world today and which is doing more for the peace of its peoples than all the armaments and embattlements have ever done, or ever will do.

There have been incidents that have occurred during that century and more which have contained within themselves the seeds of discord, had those seeds been allowed to develop. But the very confidence and faith which inspired the maintenance of the boundary line without a fort along its entire distance have served to extract from them their potential danger and to make for an even firmer cementing of the two peoples. More and more clearly is it being seen by the nations of the world that international conciliation is a possibility, and not only a possibility but the only rational course of action; if the tragedy of other world wars is to be avoided and the normal development of the resources of the great continents of the globe to be assured.

This boundary line, unfortified, presents a lesson to all mankind. Centuries ago it was preached in Palestine that "all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." In a slight degree only, perhaps, but still decidedly in some degree, this teaching is being wrought out in practice along the northern bounds of the United States. And the results have been what was only to be expected, when the fact is recalled that the teaching referred to represents the most practical instructions for the maintenance of the peace of the world that the human mind is capable of conceiving. Without, perhaps, realising it in its fulness, the peoples of these two great nations have been relying upon the most fundamental law of their being, and the results have abundantly justified their faith. When the rest of the world appreciates the lesson that has been taught since 1812 along this border line, it should be more than willing to drop its age-old preparations for self-aggrandisement and war.

There are some who feel quite sure that another Franco-Prussian war is bound to come sooner or later. Yet there appears to be no good reason why it should come unless war is desired by one or other, or both, of the parties. England and France at one time were traditional foes, yet when France's life line was endangered in 1914, the flower of British manhood was unhesitatingly sent over to stand by the side of the French in one of the deadliest struggles history has witnessed, and today Mr. Ramsay MacDonald and M. Herriot are striving together to extricate Europe out of an intolerable impasse. By the spilling of blood, the English colonists won independence for the land now known as the United States, yet for no conceivable reason are the two great English-speaking nations likely to go to war now. In the same way there is nothing to prevent Frenchmen and Germans living at peace with one another. Only both have to realise that the liberties of each end where the rights of the other begin. And if, to this realisation is added the consciousness that war does not, and cannot, pay and must make for ultimate loss no matter which side wins in a military sense, goodwill instead of hatred will automatically spring up in the European Continent where only mutual suspicion has hitherto held sway. Malice must be dethroned and sanity put in its place. There is no royal road to the age of reason. The only thing that is needed is a change of heart.

EXCERPTS FROM GREAT WRITERS

By Mathy

THE GREAT SOUL

Not every one will profess that he wants to be good, but all admit they would like to be great.

And greatness, although a secret matter, is yet well known; it has had its masters, examples, and teachers, and whosoever will may attain unto it.

Herein lie the secrets of being great:

The great soul has its resources within itself: the small soul looks to outside things and other people.

The great soul asks, "What is true?" The small soul, "What is expedient?"

The great soul is radical, he seeks for causes: the small soul is superficial, he sees only symptoms.

The great soul is of hospitable mind: the small soul clings to prejudices.

The great soul cares only that he be sincere; the small soul that he produce a desired effect.

The great soul is honest with himself; the small soul is satisfied with honesty toward others.

The great soul can concentrate; the small is dissipated.

The great soul dominates his environment; the small soul is dominated by it.

The great soul has decision; the small soul constantly hesitates.

The great soul has poise; the small soul is ever unbalanced.

The great soul has principles; the small soul policies.

The great soul learns the general laws that run through the universe, and trust them even against appearances; the small soul sees only the present profit and loss and hence is confused and can neither believe nor understand.

The great soul is above worry; the small soul is burdened by it.

The great soul has no fear; the small soul is harassed by fears continually.

The great soul lives easily—that is, with dignity and calmness of mind; the small soul is readily upset.

The great soul speaks concisely and his yea is yea; the small soul wrangles.

The great soul first makes sure he is right and is then firm; the small soul is first firm and then casts about for reasons for being so.

The great soul is sincerely humble; the small soul is vain.

The great soul is appreciative of all; the small soul is flattering toward those from whom he seeks some favor, negligent or insolent toward those who cannot contribute to his advancement.

The great soul is temperate in all things; the small soul intemperate in his beliefs, his opinions, and his tastes.

The great soul has the atmosphere of charity, is tolerant toward all and helpful in the very character of his life; the small soul is satisfied with acts of charity.

What impresses you in the great soul is his reserve power; to the small soul the performance or the word seems greater than the man.

Says the Chinese Li Ki, "The services of Han Ki were the most meritorious of all under heaven. But all he longed for was that his actions should be better than the fame of them."

Something To Think About

By Bruno Lessing

IMMIGRATION

Leaving aside the action of the Congress on the immigration question, there is no doubt that if a referendum were taken, the majority of our citizens would vote against unlimited immigration and many would vote in favor of barring all immigration. Between these two extremes is a wide field.

Whether or not the Congress has acted wisely in fixing its quotas remains to be seen. The chances are in favor of the Congress having bungled. It usually does bungle. But most of us will be dead long before the wisdom or the stupidity of our policy will be proven.

The present generation of American labor will continue to receive high wages because there will eventually be a shortage of labor. The next geenration, accustomed to what is called a "standard of living," will insist upon their automobiles, their "movies" and their short hours of work. They will probably emphasize the quantity and the quality of work as little as the present generation does. And they will, without question, profit by their leisure time as little and as stupidly as the average workingman does today.

The educationl methods of today give no promise that the next generation will have any better taste in reading, any greater ability to think or any finer spirit of obligation and sacrifice than the present one has. The general attitude of labor gives a pretty clear promise that the next generation of workingmen will work less and not so well.

Well, this country is rich in resources. It is even richer in self-satisfaction.

In European countries, poor and war-torn, are thousands upon thousands of unhappy, restless souls, eager to emigrate to our land. They would bring with them exactly the same assets which our original settlers brought—courage, eagerness to toil, willingness to sacrifice.

Among them there are probably some few who would bring imagination and vision. These few alone would be worth many of the millions who came in the past century or were born here. Because they would bring the vital fuel which a great country needs to keep the fire of progress burning.

The natural stream of emigration from every European country will, for the present, be diverted to Canada and to South America. Whether or not those lands will profit and grow in the years to come is what we must wait and see.

Whether we have within our own boundaries all the force and intelligence and inspiration and imagination to keep up for the next two hundred years, without immigration, the same pace that we have maintained for the past two hundred years, with immigration, also remains to be seen.

Whether we have sufficient labor to keep up the work of reclaiming our vast deserts, of building our future cities and of fertillizing our great stretches of arid land at a wage that will attract capital, only the future can tell.

The Shiftiness Of Time In Human Hands

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

"1—When is the middle of the night? Kindly express the hour.

"2—When does evening begin, and when does it end?

"3—When does day begin?

—E. E. M. S."

Undoubtedly there is sufficient ambiguity of definition and variety of usage in regard to the most common and convenient subdivisions of the hours of daylight and darkness to warrant your inquiries.

Midnight as shown by clocks and watches no longer corresponds, as the first users of the term naturally intended that it should do, with the exact middle of the night. Under the system of standard time now in use, the variation of real midnight from the midnight hour shown by a time-piece depends upon the observer's location with reference to the nearest standard meridian. If you live exactly on a meridian, true noon and true midnight will usually occur quite close to the corresponding hours indicated by your standard time watch. But if you live half way between two meridians there will be a discrepancy of at least as much as half an hour, true midnight following standard midnight or preceding it, according as you take your time from the meridian next west or the one next east of the place that you occupy.

And when you use daylight saving time you are thrown a whole hour, in addition, away from the true moment of midnight or of noon. About the time of the Summer solstice, June 21, the length of night, from sunset to sunrise, in the middle latitudes of the United States, may be called nine hours.

By true local time, midnight then occurs four and one-half hours after sunset, and an exactly equal time before sunrise. At that moment the sun is on the meridian under the horizon opposite to his position on the meridian above the horizon at noon. But, saying nothing of the smaller shift produced by adjustment to mean time and standard time, if the clock is set to daylight saving time, the sun does not cross the midnight line until an hour after the fictious midnight shown by the clock. The first "half" of the night is shortened to three and one-half hours, while the second "half" is lengthened to five and one-half hours. I do not mention this to combat the use of daylight saving time, which is very suitable for all who like it, but simply to show some of the curious effects of the various demands of our civilized [illegible] real midnight only occurs when the sun is crossing the observer's meridian between the north celestial pole and the nadir, just as real noon only occurs when the sun crosses the observer's meridian between the southern horizon and the zenith. I call the one "12 o'clock midnight" and the other "12 o'clock noon," if I wish to mention the hour at all, which, of course, is unnecessary.

The term "evening" is very ambiguous, and has no place in astronomical terminology, though sometimes used in a popular sense, as when speaking of "evening stars." "Evening," I was taught meant the time between the beginning of twilight and a boy's bedtime. When there was company we found to our joy that "evening sometimes lasted until 9 or 10 o'clock. I have known the term to be applied so as to include also the whole afternoon after the hot hours are past. Many people understand by evening the first half of the night.

The word day is used in two senses. The astronomer means by a day, the whole of the 24-hour period occupied by the earth in making a single rotation on its axis. His day begins at night when the Vernal Equinox is on the meridian. But in popular usage, day is distinguished from night by the possession of sunlight. Conventionally day begins at sunrise and closes at sunset, but the long bright twilight of morning and evening practically extend its reign by furnishing an additional hour or two of partial illumination by sunlight reflected from the atmosphere while the sun is below the horizon. The astronomer also uses the solar day, but counts its hours from 0 to 24, and hitherto he has started it at noon instead of midnight. But next year the astronomical solar day will, like the "civil" day, start at midnight.

DRESS

By Mary Marshall

French Women Set the Style for Cretonne Coats, Outlining the Design With Metal Thread and Beads

It was not many years ago when a certain young woman who owns and operates one of the smartest of the small dress shops in this country caused much astonishment when she appeared for luncheon at her favorite restaurant wearing a frock of cretonne. It was not astonishment mingled with admiration. Women who knew her smiled covertly, wondered what the poor girl would do next, and suggested that she had accidentally come out wearing the slip cover of one of her arm chairs.

Cretonne had been discreetly used before that for trimming frocks and hats, but this young woman was one of the first in America to offer entire dresses of cretonne. And before long she sold many of them.

The frock of cretonne or chintz is rather unusual this season. But the coat of these upholstery fabrics is distinctly smart. French women have shown a penchant for them, and have devised all sorts of ways of enriching the fabric by embroidery and beading. In the coat shown in the sketch the principal outline of the design is marked with gold thread, and the coat is lined with black satin.

Unfortunately for the woman who likes to try her own hand at making all such novelties for herself, the cretonne coat is something that should be strictly avoided by the amateur, no matter how skilled she may be. For the cretonne coat like the coat made of a paisley shawl is best left to the professional dressmaker. If you make it yourself it will not be taken seriously.

Cretonne figures may be used to good advantage, however, for ornamenting the summer wardrobe. You may cut out striking rose or other floral designs from cretonne and mount them on a silk slip to wear under a georgette or organdie frock. Cretonne figures are applied with success to summer hats, and some of the new scarfs show cut-outs from cretonne and chintz applied in blanket stitch on silk foundation. There are all sorts of possibilities in using decorative bits of cretonne in trimming children's summer frocks. Sometimes little irregular shapes cut regardless of the design of the cretonne, are applied to the scarf, hat or frock.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

BY MARY MARSHALL

ODD FASHIONS

Smart English women are no longer content to carry horn-rimmed or tortoise-shell-rimmed glasses. They want to have the rims match their frocks or other accessories, and so the occulists have laid in a supply of colored rims, and some women who never wore glasses before are wearing them now because of the fascination of these colored rims.

ARE YOU "CLOSE"?

To some young housewives there is something very unpleasant about the sort of housewifely frugality that leads a woman to go from one grocery store to another in order to save half a cent on a cake of soap. Greater experience may show these young housewives that this is simply good business.

Often there is poor economy in buying eggs or butter or fruit where they may be had for the least money—for with such things very often the cheaper food is really inferior. But when it comes to buying standard articles—soaps, cereals, package coffee, tea and the like—then there is every good reason why the housewife should buy where she finds the lowest price.

Just consider the question of soap. Do you know how many cakes of soap you use in a year? Probably not. Probably you couldn't tell even approximately how much. If you keep a maid you simply order more when she tells you you are out of it. Occasionally it seems to you that soap goes very quickly. But that is all. Now every housewife who really is a good business woman ought to know about how many cakes of household soap are needed a year, a month and a week in her house. If you do not know, you will probably be rather surprised at the large number. If you sit down and figure how much a cent, or even a half cent, saved on a cake amounts to you will see that in the course of a year you will have saved not much, but something worth saving. If you make similar savings in the cost of other groceries, then you will see that it is worth while being a little "close" in your daily buying.

Our London Letter

Success After 137 Years Effort—The "Felix" Stunt Again—American Tennis Champions—The Press Against Mr. Baldwin

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, June 5.—If there is anything which the Britisher loves more than a Royal Parade it is horse-racing and the world famous Derby, which was run yesterday, drew even greater crowds whan ushal, despite the very unfavorable weather.

After 137 years Lord Derby has, as already announced, won the great race with his remarkable pony Sansovino, being the first member of his family to win the much coveted prize of the Derby, during that period.

ANOTHER STRIKE

Londoners, whose thoughts no doubt were on the Derby rather than on railway troubles, received a rude shock when they set out for work this morning. Forty district and tube railway stations are closed today on account of an unofficial strike which, for the third time this year, has disorganised traffic and is the forerunner of threats of strikes on other lines.

This strike has been called by an unofficial committee of eight persons and it would seem that the strike does not have the authority of the Electrical Powers Engineers Association. The public knows nothing about the merits of the strike, but like Felix are forced to keep on walking. It is also reported that a crisis has suddenly arisen in the larger railway world and the strike may spread until the traffic is paralysed, not only in London but throughout the country.

NO RETURN TO EUROPE

Those British observers (says the Daily Express) who believe that the Presidential election in the United States will be fought on world-wide rather than on domestic issues, and that a Democratic victory would mean a return to a policy of European intervention on the Wilson pattern, are deceiving themselves and their public. Any party which could be tarred with the brush of "European intervention" would suffer proportionately at the polls. Therefore neither party is going to run the risk.

The battle is going to be purely domestic, though one President and Administration might prove personally more adventurous abroad than another. It would be a great mistake to imagine that the United States is ready to go further than the Dawes report.

MR. BALDWIN

The virulent campaign of detraction and misrepresentation, which is being directed against Mr. Baldwin by a certain section of the Press that professes to represent Conservative opinion is, to say the least of it, curious, says the English Review. Mr. Baldwin is the elected leader of the party, and yet nothing is being left undone by the newspapers in question to deprecate his powers of leadership and to diminish his political prestige. It is not particularly difficult to see the end to which this persistent disparagement of the late Prime Minister is being directed. It is a continuation by certain of our newspaper magnates of the policy by which they assisted so much in wrecking the Conservative Party's prospects of success at the last General Election. It is a carefully organised attempt to drive out the present Conservative leader and then to resuscitate in some form or other the old Coalition. The enthusiastic support given by those gentlemen in their various newspapers to Mr. Winston Churchill at the recent bye-election in Westminster amply justifies this conclusion.

"Now it is more than probable that in the future—possibly the near future—some working arrangement will be brought about between the Conservative Party and the more moderate Liberals, in order to combat the Socialists, much the same in character as that between the Conservatives and Liberal-Unionists in the early days of Mr. Gladstone's Irish Home Rule campaign. But a working arrangement of this kind does not mean a fusion of the two parties—indeed, nothing would be more likely to prevent the establishment of such a sensible entente cordiale as an attempt to reconstitute the Coalition. Still more calculated to defeat the object in view is this underhand maneuvering in the Press to get rid of the present Conservative leader. Mr. Baldwin has yet to prove himself a great Parliamentarian and a great party leader, but, nevertheless, he represents more fully than any other statesman at the present time the views of the bulk of the Conservative Party, whilst his courage and singleness of purpose have undoubtedly won for him the affection and respect of his followers."

MR. MACDONALD LEARNS

Nothing is more remarkable in connection with the advent of the Labor Party to office than the rapid advance which actual touch with affairs has wrought in the education of its chief. The English Review predicts that if Mr. Ramsay MacDonald can only maintain his present ratio of progress he seems likely soon to become a sensible, level-headed man, aware of the realities of the world, and entirely cognisant of the ineffable absurdities of Socialism. In a recent newspaper utterance he has declared his perception of the danger of a new world war, his opposition to "sympathetic" strikes, his recognition that "liberty is far more easily destroyed by those who abuse it than by those who oppose it," and, finally, his contempt for those (principally, of course, members of his own party) who pretend to despise levee dress. Listen to him:

"A tattered hat and used tie, a tone of voice and religious repetition of Marxian phrases, may be as indicative of a man who has sold himself to appearances as is the possession of a ceremonial dress to enable him to attend ceremonies which are historical parts of his duties."

The unfortunate thing is that this great improvement in intelligence is not in the least shared by the Socialist Party at large. Indeed, whenever some exceptional speaker mixes a grain of sense with his speech to a Socialist meeting he is nearly always met with a shout of 'You're a traitor to your class." That is the charge which is quite certain to be hurled at the present Prime Minister by the great mass of his own followers thoughout the country, simply because he shows signs of common sanity. Should they win the next General Election, their present leader will doubtless meet the fate of Kerensky in Russia, and be "scrapped."

WRONGLY REPORTED

Captain Jubal (excitedly): You have falsely announced my death in your paper, and I demand that you explain and applogise in your next issue."

Editor (with fright). "Certainly."

Next morning one read: "We regret exceedingly that the announcement in our columns of the death of Captain Jubal is wholly without foundation."
